A MESSAGE FROM THE WOMEN’S FORUM ON AFGHANISTAN

On 20 September 2021, a number of Afghan women leaders met with global women leaders from Afghanistan, Argentina, Greece, Ireland, Liberia, Nepal, Turkey, Iraq, Libya, Pakistan, Singapore, Somalia, South Africa, South Korea, Sweden, and the United States. The group included a former president, ministers, ambassadors, high-level UN officials, judges, legislators, journalists, academics, artists, and human rights advocates. Margot Wallström, former Foreign Minister of Sweden, chaired the meeting, which was convened by the Roosevelt House Human Rights Program in collaboration with the Sisterhood is Global Institute and Women for Afghan Women.

The meeting expressed global solidarity with the women of Afghanistan (SEE VIDEO) and underscored the interdependence of women’s equality and socio-political stability. The repression of women and girls leads to state fragility and failure, threatening regional and global stability. Afghanistan is heading in that direction under the Taliban. They must change course.

In light of early indications that the Taliban is not prepared to respect the fundamental human rights of women, decisions relating to engaging them and unfreezing of assets must be made in a manner that centrally involves women as decision-makers. Women must be appointed to represent Afghan-related interventions at the highest levels and to deal directly with the Taliban. We welcome women’s leadership of UNAMA.

The immediate priority is humanitarian assistance, including to sustain the national education and health systems. Humanitarian actors – UN agencies, IFRC, ICRC, global NGOs – must live up to their professed commitments to gender equality in all aspects of their efforts to deliver assistance to the people of Afghanistan who are in desperate need. They must include women as decision makers, negotiators, project managers and direct recipients, and work with and through Afghan women groups and leaders on the ground and outside the country.

Efforts must continue to support the evacuation from Afghans who are at risk, especially women judges and women’s rights advocates. Disappointment was expressed regarding the failure of the global community, particularly the United States and other Western countries, to readily provide refuge for these women, and a call was made to prioritize and facilitate the safe relocation of Afghan women who have put their lives on the line to defend and promote women’s rights. Muslim women participating in the meeting called for a global dialogue within the religious community to clarify that the ideology of the Taliban and their efforts to deny women fundamental human rights are incompatible with the tenets of Islam.

Women’s rights in Afghanistan - access to education, employment, political participation, resources and freedom of movement - will be a litmus test for the Taliban and the global community. We remind the UN Security Council of its recognition that gender equality and women’s empowerment is critical to international peace and security. These words must be given real meaning in Afghanistan. We call on the Security Council to hold the Taliban accountable for the rights set forth in the Convention on Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women, to which Afghanistan is a party. While we recognize the reality of the Taliban in power, official recognition should not precede their clear demonstration of respect for women’s fundamental rights under international law. A human rights monitoring mechanism should be established by the Human Rights Council.
Women are standing up for their rights in Afghanistan and they will not be stopped. We are with them.
